

EBENEZER PLYMPTON.

JANUARY 10, 1832.

Mr. HUBBARD, from the Committee on Revolutionary Pensions, made the following

REPORT:

The Committee on Revolutionary Pensions, to whom was referred the petition of Ebenezer Plympton, report:

That the petitioner states, under oath, that he enlisted in Capt. Wheeler's company, Col. Read's regiment, on the 1st day of December, 1775, and served two months: this statement is confirmed by the deposition of John Balcour. The petitioner also states, that, in July, 1776, he again enlisted into the same company, and continued in service, under that enlistment, at Ticonderoga, for five months: this statement is fully confirmed by the deposition of Samuel Hoar. The petitioner also states, that, in 1778, he again enlisted in Capt. Maulton's company, in Col. Poor's regiment; and that, under this enlistment, he continued in the service in New York, at the White Plains and West Point, for a period of eight months. This statement is substantially supported by the deposition of John Goodenow.

The service of the applicant, in the army of the revolution for more than nine months, is satisfactorily proved. His age is now 76. He represents that his general health is poor: that he is wholly unable to labor, or even to walk, without the assistance of a crutch. This statement is confirmed by the deposition of Doctor Thomas Stearns. And the applicant declares, under oath, that he is now reduced to penury, having, by misfortune, lost the whole of his property. The committee think him entitled to a pension, and report a bill.

EBENEZER PLYMPTON

January 10, 1890

His Excellency, from the Committee on Revolutionary Pensions, reads the following

REPORT

The Committee on Revolutionary Pensions, to whom was referred the petition of Ebenezer Plympton, report

That the petitioners under oath that he enlisted in Capt. Wheeler's company, Col. Reed's regiment, on the 1st day of December, 1775, and was two months; this statement is confirmed by the deposition of John Dalton. The petitioner also states that in July, 1776, he again enlisted into the same company, and continued to serve, under that color, until the evacuation of Fort Mifflin. The petitioner also states that in 1776, the evacuation of Fort Mifflin. The petitioner also states that in 1776, he again enlisted in Capt. Mifflin's company, in Col. Reed's regiment, and that under this enlistment, he continued in the service in New York, White Plains and West Point for a period of eight months. The statement is supported by the deposition of John Dalton. The service of the applicant in the army of the revolution for more than one month, is satisfactorily proved. This act is now for his services that a general credit is given; that he is wholly disabled by the war, and is the recipient of a pension. This statement is confirmed by the deposition of Peter Thomas Brown. And the applicant also states that he is now reduced to poverty, having by mismanagement lost the whole of his property. The committee think him entitled to a pension, and report a bill.